Weekly report :)

What can I say.....another awesome week with our kids.

This week Kaylee and Lauren took pizza to the elementary school to have lunch with some of our girls. Needless to say our little girls were very popular at lunch that day. :) They were so excited to have some "cool" girls come visit them at school.

Josh and Gabe went another day and took pizza to our little boys. All their friends were asking "who are they?"

Friday we finally had time to pass out all that food. We went door to door, over 100 apartments and passed out over 3,600 lbs of food! Yes, I did say 3,600 pounds of food. We carried each box in for them and had a chance to meet so many new people. We even had a chance to pray for some of the people. It took us three hours to deliver all the boxes of food. Carrying all those boxes upstairs is getting our team in shape. :)

I wish you could have seen those little faces as we passed out the food. Some jumped up and down clapping their little hands like we were delivering gold. What fun we have every week.

Wednesday we picked up some of our JV and high school kids for our first weekly Bible study at our house. Josh, Tiffany, Gabe, Kaylee and Timiko run that department. The kids had an amazing time. they were talking about it in the van all the way home. Some would ask "what was that scripture" and another would say "I wrote it down, here it is." One said she knows what she wants to do. she wants to be a missionary. Does it get any better? All the long hours, back braking work, the frustrations, mud in the house, having to deal with head lice in our little ones (not to fun) and cleaning up after one of our kids throw-up or pee in their chair at kids club.

Next Friday is bike rodeo at the elementary school. One of our little boys didn't have a bike. Last Friday we bought him one and took it to him. He was so overwhelmed he couldn't even talk. I will post pictures on my next weeks report after the rodeo.

Doing all this brings us great joy and pleasure. But most of all it builds lasting relations and trust with our kids. The more we spend time with our kids the more we fall in love with them and the more they fall in love with us. And the more we can help them fall in love with Jesus.

Loving my job,
